Quarterly Update

DMS Stirling House Dynamic Fund

30th June 2020

Investment Objective

To achieve long term capital growth.

Investment Policy

The Fund will seek to achieve its investment objective by gaining exposure predominantly to global equities with some exposure to money market instruments, fixed interest securities, cash and near cash. The investment manager may allocate the Fund towards particular investment themes, geographic areas and sectors. The Fund may be expected to have a relatively high degree of volatility.

It is anticipated that the Fund may be almost wholly invested through collective investment schemes. As the Fund grows in size, it is intended that the Fund will invest less in collective investment schemes and instead invest to a greater extent or wholly directly (where permitted) into the asset classes set out above.

The Fund may also invest directly or indirectly in other transferable securities and collective investment schemes which may have exposure to alternatives such as commodities, loans, hedge funds, private equity and property.

Performance Commentary

The second quarter of 2020 has undoubtedly been one of the sharpest economic downturns in modern history. Potentially surprising then, that it has coincided with one of the sharpest recoveries in asset markets, with every major asset class offering positives returns on the quarter. Since April, the backdrop has become more positive; global equity markets recovered the majority of losses from Q1, Gold made new highs and fixed income markets rallied on sizeable QE packages.

Following a similar trend to Q1, the top performers in the market were predominantly those exposed to the working from home trends, specifically those in the information technology sector, namely, Amazon, Microsoft and ASML. In contrast, travel exposed business continued to languish from the effects of quarantining and domestic lockdowns. The funds removed exposure to this sector in Q1.

Having reduced equity positions in mid-February before the majority of the fall in equity markets, the fund added back to equities in mid-April once the scope and magnitude of government and central bank support became apparent. In terms of individual transactions, the fund has sold positions in Pfizer and Diageo, reinvesting the proceeds by adding to Amgen and investing in Colgate, which has significant growth prospects in emerging markets and starting a new position in Splunk, a leader in machine learning and data management for large corporations, a rapidly expanding area as the global economy becomes progressively more automated and digitalised.

Stirling House

Stirling House Financial Services Limited was established in 2003 as an independently owned firm specialising in the provision of face-to-face financial advice.

We have a proven track record in providing investment advice and with our close partnership with Sarasin have the ability to offer bespoke fund management solutions.

Our funds have been specifically designed to be managed within predefined risk constraints whilst giving investors exposure to a range of investments managed globally. This provides you with all the economies of scale and gives you access to professional fund management and expertise, allowing us to offer our Clients the opportunity of aiming to obtain consistent, superior investment performance over the long term.

The Stirling House Funds are collective investment schemes authorised and regulated in the UK by the Financial Conduct Authority. This provides the reassurance that these Funds are being managed to the highest standards as one would expect as a Client of Stirling House.

Fund Outlook from Sarasin & Partners

Whilst social distancing strategies are coming to an end, economic and market conditions will not return to how they were before: international trade flows and supply chains will have been permanently disrupted in places; corporate borrowing costs will remain higher; balance sheets will be damaged, requiring gradual repair or rights issues; many dividends will be cut and share buybacks will be reduced.

Longer-term, technology disruption will accelerate; consumer attitudes will be cautious; governments will be less able to stimulate recovery than after the financial crisis; weaker economic growth will leave some companies struggling to grow sales and profits; investors will be much more aware, and cautious, of social and environmental ‘negative externalities’ and poor corporate governance; many shares will trade on lower valuation multiples.

For all these reasons, it is a time to remain extremely vigilant and not be complacent. Our focus remains on investments that can generate secure and growing cashflows over the long-term. It is the nature of companies to adapt and find ways of solving problems profitably and whilst not all will thrive, our conversations with different management teams has been reassuring for the majority of companies you hold.

Numerous opportunities will be driven by the shift to a more digital world; automation, climate change mitigation and adaptation, demographic trends and shifts in consumption across both emerging and the developed markets. These themes can surpass the broad measures of GDP growth and the challenges triggered by the coronavirus and provide reassurance that the majority of companies in the portfolio have good prospects beyond the current crisis.
