Quarterly Update

DMS Stirling House Dynamic Fund

31st December 2020

Investment Objective

To achieve long term capital growth.

Investment Policy

The Fund will seek to achieve its investment objective by gaining exposure predominantly to global equities with some exposure to money market instruments, fixed interest securities, cash and near cash. The investment manager may allocate the Fund towards particular investment themes, geographic areas and sectors. The Fund may be expected to have a relatively high degree of volatility.

It is anticipated that the Fund may be almost wholly invested through collective investment schemes. As the Fund grows in size, it is intended that the Fund will invest less in collective investment schemes and instead invest to a greater extent or wholly directly (where permitted) into the asset classes set out above.

The Fund may also invest directly or indirectly in other transferable securities and collective investment schemes which may have exposure to alternatives such as commodities, loans, hedge funds, private equity and property.

Performance Commentary

Despite infection rates rising, Q4 produced the biggest rotation into cyclical stocks the market has seen for decades. The catalyst was a trilogy of positive vaccine announcements, supported by a market friendly outcome in the US election. Christmas Eve also saw a “skinny” Brexit deal announced that provides firm foundations and strengthened the pound. Despite daunting infection data, these political conclusions, together with generous monetary and fiscal policies, saw global equity markets reach new highs and finish the year c. 16% ahead in local currency terms.

Orsted was a strong performer over the quarter, the greatest capital expenditure boom in economic history needed to meet Paris Accord climate goals and the offshore Wind provider will be a key beneficiary. Another standout performer was ASML, the world leader in lithography machines needed to manufacture semiconductors.

By contrast, Alibaba detracted from performance. Alibaba was rocked by Chinese regulators postponing the IPO of its payment platform subsidiary as well as reports of new Chinese anti-trust laws. If enacted, the changes could threaten Alibaba’s future dominance in the Chinese e-commerce market.

Medtronic was also increased over the quarter; the company stands to benefit from the resurgence in elective surgeries as economies open up. The position in global materials company Umicore was sold on the view that its addressable market is challenged as Tesla announced that aspects of their production were being brought in-house.

Stirling House

Stirling House Financial Services Limited was established in 2003 as an independently owned firm specialising in the provision of face-to-face financial advice.

We have a proven track record in providing investment advice and with our close partnership with Sarasin have the ability to offer bespoke fund management solutions.

Our funds have been specifically designed to be managed within predefined risk constraints whilst giving investors exposure to a range of investments managed globally. This provides you with all the economies of scale and gives you access to professional fund management and expertise, allowing us to offer our Clients the opportunity of aiming to obtain consistent, superior investment performance over the long term.

The Stirling House Funds are collective investment schemes authorised and regulated in the UK by the Financial Conduct Authority. This provides the reassurance that these Funds are being managed to the highest standards as one would expect as a Client of Stirling House.

Fund Outlook from Sarasin & Partners

With vaccines being rolled out, hopes of returning to normal look realistic. However, the time required to deploy the vaccine and for economies and societies to reopen fully cannot be underestimated. For many countries, still grappling with rising cases and returning to lockdowns, it will remain challenging.

To revive economies, policy makers continue to draw on their toolbox from the Financial Crisis but with greater urgency and scale. Central banks have shifted towards more dovish monetary policy, with lower rates for longer and a willingness to sustain higher inflation. Trillions in fiscal stimulus has also been pledged, targeting inequality with ‘levelling up’ and ‘building back better’ policies vaunted globally. Crucially, governments mentality towards debt has shifted, meaning we’re unlikely to see a return to the austerity that followed the 2008 crisis.

Over the long term, we think 2020 provides a window into the future. Trends that the pandemic accelerated, such as e-commerce and working from home, will continue. Further opportunities will be driven by the shift to a more digital world, new automation, climate change mitigation and adaptation, demographic trends and by shifts in consumption patterns in both the emerging and the developed markets.

Beyond the pandemic, there are other risks we are monitoring closely. Rising inequality is our greatest worry and the consequences of the virus disproportionately affecting lower skilled, lower income populations. We remain positive on the prospects for a cyclical economic recovery in 2021 supported by international vaccination efforts. Ultimately, this combined with continued support from central banks provides an attractive backdrop for risk assets.
