Quarterly Update

DMS Stirling House Dynamic Fund

31st December 2023

Investment Objective

To achieve long term capital growth.

Investment Policy

The Fund will seek to achieve its investment objective by gaining exposure predominantly to global equities with some exposure to money market instruments, fixed interest securities, cash and near cash. The investment manager may allocate the Fund towards particular investment themes, geographic areas and sectors. The Fund may be expected to have a relatively high degree of volatility.

It is anticipated that the Fund may be almost wholly invested through collective investment schemes. As the Fund grows in size, it is intended that the Fund will invest less in collective investment schemes and instead invest to a greater extent or wholly directly (where permitted) into the asset classes set out above.

The Fund may also invest directly or indirectly in other transferable securities and collective investment schemes which may have exposure to alternatives such as commodities, loans, hedge funds, private equity and property.

Performance Commentary

Shares and bonds performed well during December. The main drivers were positive comments about the economic outlook from Jerome Powell, Chair of the US Federal Reserve, and lower-than-expected US inflation.

The best-performing country was the US, where the stock market has a larger proportion of technology companies. China continues to be a detractor owing to a lacklustre recovery following the reopening after COVID.

The fund's performance was supported by its holding in Broadcom, which reported strong Q4 earnings results. Broadcom is well placed to benefit from the AI trend, as the business focusses on designing and building chips for AI infrastructure. In particular, Broadcom's involvement in data centres infrastructure is likely to benefit from the increased networking needs for AI.

Another strong positive contributor was the industrial real estate company Prologis, which was bought in the prior month. It has long term structural tailwinds, best-in-class management and disclosure, and has a high-quality tenant mix.

Tencent was one of the fund's weaker performers. Its share price declined due to China proposing to curb online gaming which makes up a large amount of the Company's revenue.

The fund added to Amazon. Online retail will continue to take share from traditional retail, and Amazon Prime continues to represent a major growth opportunity. In addition, Amazon Web Services is a proven multibillion dollar, long term growth engine.

The fund also added to ASML. ASML remains the critical bottleneck for more powerful cheaper processing and storage of data through better semiconductors.

The fund sold BBGI Global Infrastructure, in the most part to add to equity exposure.

Fund Outlook from Sarasin & Partners

We expect inflation in the US and Europe to slow during 2024 and end the year nearer to Central Bank targets of 2%. That means Central Banks should be able to reduce interest rates, which had been their main weapon in the battle to bring down inflation. Lower interest rates, in turn, should help to boost economic growth.

Having said that, stock markets could be subject to a number of political threats in 2024. Conflict is unfortunately on the rise, particularly in Gaza, between Russia and Ukraine, and in Africa. In the US, the build-up and outcome of the presidential election could cause stock market upheavals.

Overall, we believe company shares should benefit from the more resilient economic conditions forecast for 2024. Our investment focus continues to be on shares with high quality that provide a degree of stability to the fund. We also spread risk across the portfolio by investing in companies that we believe have enduring long-term business strategies. For the period ahead, we are optimistic about the returns available from most assets as financial conditions loosen and economic risks remain contained. That leads us to favour equities and investment-grade corporate bonds, with a preference for good-quality investments that are likely to benefit from lower interest rates.
