Quarterly Update

DMS Stirling House Dynamic Fund

30th June 2024

Investment Objective

To achieve long term capital growth.

Investment Policy

The Fund will seek to achieve its investment objective by gaining exposure predominantly to global equities with some exposure to money market instruments, fixed interest securities, cash and near cash. The investment manager may allocate the Fund towards particular investment themes, geographic areas and sectors. The Fund may be expected to have a relatively high degree of volatility.

It is anticipated that the Fund may be almost wholly invested through collective investment schemes. As the Fund grows in size, it is intended that the Fund will invest less in collective investment schemes and instead invest to a greater extent or wholly directly (where permitted) into the asset classes set out above.

The Fund may also invest directly or indirectly in other transferable securities and collective investment schemes which may have exposure to alternatives such as commodities, loans, hedge funds, private equity and property.

Performance Commentary

Over the second quarter of 2024, stock markets continued to anticipate likely future interest rate reductions. Stocks in the technology and communication sectors performed well, with revenues related to artificial intelligence (AI) proving particularly supportive.

Some central banks, including the European Central Bank, announced interest rate cuts. However, the US Federal Reserve left rates unchanged and this led to bond prices being fairly muted.

Gold maintained the strong performance which started earlier in the year with continued geopolitical tensions making it attractive.

The outcome of November's US presidential election remained a source of uncertainty for investors. Meanwhile, the French snap election forced down European bond prices, with corporate bond spreads widening over government bonds.

Nvidia remained a significant driver of the fund's performance. A strong earnings report showed continued interest in its products due to AI-related demand. Apple also performed strongly following the unveiling of its approach to AI on upcoming iPhones.

In contrast, the share price of Walt Disney drifted back from its strength in the first quarter. Despite pent-up demand for the company's parks since Covid-19, visitor numbers may be weaker due to uncertainty among consumers. Disney's streaming business is now profitable but subscriber numbers were slightly lower than expected.

Meanwhile, Prologis, a real estate investment trust, was weak, as it is sensitive to interest rates remaining high.

The fund started a position in Zoetis, a specialist animal healthcare business. This high-quality business has significant revenue growth potential. The fund also added to Apple, which is benefiting from renewed confidence in its devices due to new AI features.

The fund sold AIA, an insurance and investment company, given concerns over its future business mix and margins, as well as potential future regulatory issues.

Fund Outlook from Sarasin & Partners

Stock markets should benefit from robust economic growth. Global inflation is trending downwards despite the rate of price rises in the services sector remaining high. With inflation falling, central banks will look to reduce interest rates, but investors now expect this to happen at a slower pace than previously anticipated. Geopolitical risks remain on the horizon, but these have only a limited impact on global supply chains. However, elections around the world could adversely impact volatility in investment markets.

We are taking a less defensive outlook by increasing the fund's proportion of high-quality shares compared with bonds. We believe equities continue to offer the most attractive returns, with positive momentum from companies reporting strong earnings and dividends. In particular, we see significant long-term potential in the fund's climate change and technology sector investments as attention focuses on decarbonisation and developments in AI. Higher interest rates mean bond prices are lower, although bonds issued by UK companies continue to be attractive. We continue to hold gold as a precaution against any upsets in financial markets.
